YEAR IN PRISON FOR WICKES.

DOCTORS SAY LEWIS JARVIS IS SANE-HE TOO SAYS SO

And After His Sentence He Seeks a Stay Pending Appeal-Told the Doctors He Had No Criminal Intent in Writing the Blackmailing Letters to Weston.

A year in the penitentiary for Thomas Parmalee Wickes was the sentence imposed yesterday by Justice Rogers in the Supreme Court, Criminal Branch. Wickes was convicted of blackmail in writing the "Lewis Jarvis" letters. His counsel immediately after sentence got from Justice Leventritt an order to show cause why a certificate of reasonable doubt should not be issued. The order is returnable next Tuesday.

In sentencing Wickes Justice Rogers said he was sorry he had to do it, as he had hoped that the doctors would corroborate the statements that he was not of sound mind. But the doctors had just reported that Wickes was perfectly sane.

Dr. Austin Flint told Justice Rogers that Wickes had admitted writing the letters, but denied criminal intent or expectation of pecuniary advantage. He knew that what had done was wrong, foolish, immoral, and even criminal, but he had had no criminal intent. Wickes declared that he was sane now and sane at the time that he wrote the letters, and that he expected to stand

Justice Rogers wanted to know if that wasn't the sort of a statement that an insane man usually made. Dr. Flint said it was but that he examined Wickes and found no indications of insanity. Dr. Carlos no indications of insanity. Di MacDonald agreed with Dr. Flint.

"Is there any reason why the sentence of the Court should not be passed?" asked

None" said Wickes in a low voice "Ineedn't say to you, "said Justice Rogers," that this is a most painful duty for me. You are a gentleman of years of experience at the bar, of education, culture and social standing, and you now stand here under the verdict of a jury finding you guilty of blackmail. As you know, the statute makes the extreme penalty five years in State prison. I would gladly excuse you if I could, but I have a public duty to perform and I sentence you to the duty to perform, and I sentence you to the penitentiary for a year."

As Wickes left the court his wife, who had been with him, shook hands with him and promised to see him in the Tombs.

Mr. Spooner (Rep., Wis.) contended that the appointment itself was legal and the concluding phrase was mere surr lusage.

Mr. Burrows also called attention to what he called the ill wording in another particular, namely, that the Governor had appointed Mr. Gearin "to fill the vacancy." This, he said, the Governor could not do. He could make a temporary. vacancy. This, he said, the Governor could not do. He could make a temporary appointment, but the vacancy could he filled only by the Legislature. Nevertheless, he could not object to the administration of the oath to Mr. Gearin, who was thereupon sworn in.

Ohio), the President's prospective son-in-law, to-day introduced a bill authorizing the Secretary of State to acquire, at a cost not to exceed $5,000,000, proper sites and buildings for use of the American Ambassadors and Ministers in foreign countries. The United States now owns or leases only the residences of its representatives in Pekin, Tokio, and Seoul,

"The underlying purpose of my bill," said Mr. Longworth, "is to remove the one, at present, absolutely necessary qualification, that of great we alth, for holding high diplomatic office under the United States. It is an oren and notorious fact that with the small salaries which our Government pays, compared to what other countries pay, none but very rich men can aspire to high diplomatic offices. High officials of that country, including an ex-Cabinet member and four Generals the Colombian army, were implicated in the plot, which was discovered by the authorities in ample time to prevent any action on the part of the conspirators. From the State Department's advices it appears to have been a well founded plot to do away with the present controlling interests and establish another faction in power. Those implicated were arrested yesterday and are now being summarily tried by court-martial.

PANAMA CANAL BONDS. Secretary Shaw Says He Does Not Contemplate an Immediate Issue. WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 - The Secretary of the Treasury issued the following statement to-day "Although the Panama Canal bill which has just passed Congress perfected the legislation relating to the sale of Panama bonds and makes it possible to issue them at any time, the Treasury Department does not contemplate an immediate issue. The appropriation for the Panama Canal which has just been made by Congress is coupled with a provision that money paid out of the Treasury for such purpose may be reim-bursed from the proceeds of bonds hereafter sold. This provision permits the Secretary of the Treasury to choose his own time for issuing the bonds. "At present conditions for an issue are not so favorable as they are likely to be later on. An immediate bond issue would absorb from the channels of trade and lock up in the Treasury the amount of such issue. The present conditions are such as to make such absorption undesirable. However, the recent refunding operations of the Treasury have resulted in the creation of $53,000,000 new 2 per cent; consols of 1930. Of this amount over $40,000,000 has been taken by national banks, so that the demand on the part of the banks for 2 per cent, bonds to secure their circulation has been satisfied for the time being.

"Other reasons also exist for deferring the issue. The Treasury is well supplied with funds, and interest on the bonds can be saved by postponement. The appropriation just made by Congress for the Panama Canal is an emergency appropriation, and the total amount actually needed to meet disbursements for the canal needed to meet discursements for the canal during the balance of the fiscal year cannot now be definitely stated. Additional in-formation on this point will be available later in the present session of Congress and will enable the Secretary of the Treasury to determine to better advantage the amount of bonds to be sold in the first issue

The report says:

SMITH BEATS DOHAN.

Billy Maynard and George Hoey Box to a Draw at Long Acre A. C.

Howard Smith, a local featherweight, showed fine form in the first star bout at the Long Acre A. C., 158 West Twenty-ninth last night, when he met John Dohan his rival in weight. Dohan led frequently in the first, catching Smith on the face with jabs and swings. Smith played for the body, but Dohan blocked nicely. Dohan had the lend in this round. In the second Smith used a right drive for the heart and caught Dohan each time that he rushed. Dohan swing, but Smith kept in close and the blows went around his neck. Dohan cane up tardily for the third. Smith kept prodding the body and brought Dohan partly to his knees with the right. Billy Maynard, who a few years ago was thought to be the coming featherweight, swapped punches with George Hory of this city in the second star encounter for three rounds. The first round was fast in spots, Hoey getting to his rival's body with the right. Maynard was more active in the second, exchanging rights and lefts. Hoey pounded the body, but could not land squarely, as Maynard blocked. The final round was spirited, both mixing it up. It was an interesting mill all told, with honors about even.

As a starter Bert Keyes Met Al Cleary. This bout was punctuated by straight, clean hard hitting. Keyes staggered Cleary in the second, and in the third both were bleeding. Keyes had a slight advantage. The next go was a corker. The principals were Mike Harris and Jimmy Murtha. Harris did well in the first.

In the second Murtha landed a right on the jaw and sent Harris through the ropes clean out. Emergency Kelly and Ed Wallace figured in a tame bout, the outcome being a draw. Harry Engle had no trouble in outpointing Jimmy Moran in three fast rounds. Joe Jeanette and Walter Johnson, two colored heavyweights, had it out. In the second round Jeanette let fly a hard right, and Johnson reeled toward the ropes.

FITZ'S DEFEAT RECALLS THE FALL OF JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

Corntshman Too Old, Say Ring Followers, Who Regret His Finish-Chicago's New Heavy-Cromwell of the Fiddler Case Turned Down on the Coast

Fitzsimmons's finish as a pugilist appears to be regretted by sporting men all over the country, who agree in the opinion that the famous Cornishman was beaten by Jack D'Brien at Frisco on Wednesday night chiefly because of old age. Fitzsimmons trained faithfully. He said he felt well and strong, but from all accounts all of his old winning qualities, except gameness, were lacking in the ring. He could not punch with his former vigor, and it was impossible for him to show the speed which helped him conquer all of his opponents except Jeffries. was a case of Corbett and John L. Sullivan all over again," said a prominent ring expert yesterday. "O'Brien, like Corbett, had youth, science and agility to depend upon, while Fitzsimmons, like Sullivan. was slow and old, depending solely upon the wallop, which did not land with its customary power. Sullivan dropped from sheer exhaustion and so did Fitz. Nobody can say that if O'Brien, in his present form, had tackled Fitz five years ago, when the Cornishman was in his prime, he would have escaped a knockout. He could not have withstood Fitz's heavy jolts and swings with any more fortitude than Sharkey, Ruhlin, Corbett and Choynski showed prior to sum mary defeat. Fitz was too old to tackle this young, clever fellow, who showed a wise head when he made the match." O Brien, always a money maker and saver, will now gather in a golden harvest before he enter-the ring again. He has a right to the so-alled title of "light heavyweight cham pion," which is really an empty honor. He is too light to have a chance with Jeffries, if the big fellow should ever decide to fight again, while the odds would be apparently against him should he consent to a meeting with Marvin Hart, who says he is the real heavyweight champion, because Jeffries be-stowed the title upon him. Fitzsimmons's defeat of Wednesday is further proof he was a back number when he failed to stop George Gardner in twenty rounds, and that he should have retired permanently from the ring after his poor showing in that encounter. Bu Fitz, like many other old timers, did not know when he had had enough. He died game, however, and will always be remembered as the greatest fighter of his weight that the world has ever seen.

It was a keen struggle between the two players, with each having about an equal chance to win. The billiards came steadily for the most part, with Dr. Douglas getting better results in the early stages. After the halfway point had been passed White's playing was more reliable than his opponent's, the latter being streaky toward the finish. Once he made 58 in two successive innings, and again 32, but these spells were surrounded by shallows consisting of frequent zeros and other attenuated innings. A KENNEL CLUB FIELD DAY.

PLEASURE AND BUSINESS AT QUARTERLY MEETING.

Twenty-first Birthday Honored by a Notable Luncheon Delegates Define American Territory as United States Ruling Bars Canadian Entries in Novice Classes,

There was a luncheon and reception at the cooms of the American Kennel Club yesterday to celebrate the twenty-first birthday of the national organization in the bench show world. The rooms were decked in Christmas greens and Secretary Vredenburgh received the callers, aided by his staff. which included Charles Mackarness, editor of the A. K. C. Gazette, and Mrs. J. S. Schell-There were no formal speeches, but Mr. Vredenburg, in welcoming the guests, mentioned that they had 109 clubs in the organization and all were in harmony from the Atlantic to the Pacific. H. H. Hunnne-well of Boston, in proposing the health of Mr. Vredenburgh, referred to him as the pilot who had brought the A. K. C. ship in safety through many storms and reefs. It was the first social gathering ever neld at the A. K. C. Men who benched bird dogs, St. Bernards and mastiffs at the earlier shows of Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and New York, rubbed shoulders at the luncheon with the young chaps who are now exploiting French bulls, Boston terriers, White Scottish, Dalmatians, ions in breeds. But at bench shows and A K. C. gatherings all exhibitors are equal and the lovers of the stalwart English bulldogs and active bull terriers chummed most heartily with the beagle men, the fanciers of Airedales and all the smaller terriers, and the faddist of the toy breeds. Among the old guard were A. Clinton Wilmerding, G. Muss Arnolt, Edward Brooks, Medford, Mass., Ben S. Smith, Closter, N. J., and James Mor-August Be,mont, the A. K. C. president, telephoned at the last moment that he could not attend, and W. G. Rockefeller was another absentee of the executive board, which, how-ever, was represented by H. P. Hunnewell, Boston, Marcel A. Viti, Philadelphia: William B. Emery, Boston, and the other members, Major G. M. Carnochan, J. W. Appleton and H. K. Bloodgood. The latter is honorary president of the A. K. C. associate members, Osgood, Eoston, delegate of the Boston Terrier Club, and Myron W. Robinson, Englewood, a leading exhibitor in that American specialty, were together, while other guests were Abram D. Vice-President Hunnewell had the chair at the quarterly meeting of the American Kennel Club held after the luncheon. Fifty-five clubs were represented. An important decision was arrived at concerning the definition of American bred dogs and the word American wherever it occurs in the A. K. C. rules. There has been a controversy on the point ever since the last quarterly meeting, particularly among those interested in Canadish dogs, consequent on the change in the bench show classification making the novice class for American dogs only.

The claim was made that any dog raised on the continent is an American dog, and as some of the specialty clubs have permitted Canadian members to exhibit for their specials offered to American bred dogs a proportion of the delegates tried to have the novice classes opened to Canadians as well, while all the delegates were anyone to make specials offered to American bred dogs a proportion of the delegates tried to have the novice classes opened to Canadians as well, while all the delegates were anxious to make a final decision. There was a long and heated debate, the questions being threshed out most thoroughly.

On the vote the delegates decided that the word American wherever used by the A. K. C. shall mean a person "living in the United States or a citizen of the United States." The argument to sway the doubters was that the A. K. C. has only to follow the initiative of the United States fovernment, which entitles its chief diplomatic representatives the American Ambassadors. It was also voted that (anadian dogs may not compete for special prizes at the bench shows except where the conditions state that the prizes are for American and Canadian dogs. This also applies to the produce stakes of the specialty clubs in the future.

It was also voted that the produce of a hitch bought in a foreign country and whelped in the United States would be eligible to registration as American bred, if the purchaser is an American A Canadian or foreign resident may not gain an Unerican registration for the produce of such a bitch sent to the United States to whelp, the nationality of the breeder determining the right to such registration. The annual meeting and election of officers will be in February.

HOCKEY.

New York A. C. Team Wins Easily From St. Nicholas.

The game of bookey last night between the New York Athletic Club and the St. Nicholas Skating Club teams was rather a tame one. The New York team won by a score of 5 goals to 3 and for a long time it looked as though the St. Nicholas players would only have one goal to their credit. The game was a clean one and there was little rough play. Conway, Coolican, Castleman and Dilla-baugh were suspended for short periods for tripping or rough checking, but their offenses were not serious. The first goal was scored by Souther for the St. Nicholas team. It was a fluke. Carruthers had taken the puck down and passed. it to Souther, who lifted it from the side. The puck struck Williams on the hand and bounded into the net. Bullen scored for the New York A. C. on a pass from Castle-
